Custis W. Wright, Esq., Secretary of State, being admitted, presented a communication from His Excellency, the Governor, with sundry accompanying documents.

On motion of Mr. Smith,

The message from the Governor, together with the accompanying documents, were read, as follows :

Fellow-citizens of the Senate and House of Representatives :

In compliance with the requirements of our State Constitution, and in accordance with long established custom, I proceed to the performance of the duty required of the Governor, to give to you such information of the affairs of the State as has come to my knowledge since the last adjournment of the General Assembly, and to recommend to your consideration such measures as I deem expedient. The duty is a pleasant one, because it affords me the opportunity to assure you of the continued prosperity of the State and the happiness of our people, to congratulate you that good government and a sense of continued security are preserved within our limits, and to extend to you a cordial welcome to the position of law-makers for the State and guardians of the public interests, assigned you by an intelligent and confiding constituency.

It is our duty, as a Christian people, to make grateful recognition of the hand of a beneficent Providence in the dispensation of blessings which have so auspiciously attended the events of the year just closed.

The General Assembly has seldom convened under circumstances of so much encouragement and at the same time so great responsibility as at present. We may well indulge the hope, that, guided by an enlightened statemanship, your knowledge of the wants and interests of the people will lead you to the adoption of measures which will result in lasting benefit to the State.

FINANCES.

The first subject to which I propose to invite the attention of the Legislature is the condition of the State Finances, and it affords me great satisfaction to assure you of the continued prosperous condition of the Treasury. In my last biennial message I gave a detailed statement of the indebtedness and also of the investments of the State. To that statement I refer for details, intending in this communication to give only the aggregates of State liabilities and assets. At the date referred to, the State debt amounted to the sum of one million four hundred and fifty-six thousand dollars. Since which time bonds to the amount of one hundred and seventy-six thousand dollars have, under provisions of an act of the legislature passed at Dover, March 4th, 1865, been executed and delivered to the President of the Junction and Breakwater Railroad Company, for the use of that company, which increases the State debt by this amount, and makes the aggregate of the State debt, at the present time, one million six hundred and thirty-two thousand dollars. The aggregate of the investments of the State on the 6th day of January 1869, amounted to the sum of eight hundred and fifty thousand one hundred and fifty dollars, which sum has since been increased by the sum of one hundred and seventy-six thousand dollars loaned to the Junction and Breakwater Railroad Company, and also by the further sum of forty-eight thousand dollars invested in the bonds of this State by the Treasurer, which he now has in his possession subject to the order of the Legislature, being the same bonds which he was directed by the act of the Legislature above referred to to reserve for the payment of the interest for two years on the sum of four hundred thousand dollars loaned to the Junction and Breakwater Railroad Company, the payment of which is secured by first mortgage on the entire road. If we add these two sums, amounting to two hundred and twenty-four thousand dollars, to the sum of eight hundred and fifty thousand one hundred and fifty dollars, we have the present aggregate of the investments of the State, amounting to the sum of one million seventy-four thousand one hundred and fifty dollars; which, being deducted from the sum of one million six hundred and thirty-two thousand dollars, leaves a balance of State indebtedness, in excess of State investments, of five hundred and fifty-seven thousand eight hundred and fifty dollars; showing a decrease of the balance against the State since 1869 of forty-eight thousand dollars.

From a statement submitted by the State Treasurer for the information of the Executive, it appears that there has been paid to the Treasurer, under the operation of the Acts of the Legislature to provide revenue for this State, passed at the session of 1869. the following sums :

From sales, manufactures, investments, private bankers, &c	$72,547 01
From taxes on banks.....	9,050 28
From county officers, including taxes on process and collateral inheritances.....	9,528 06
From tax on insurance companies	3,598 18

Amounting in the aggregate to..... $94,723 53

There has also been received, under the operation of the law of 1864, from the Philadelphia, Wilmington & Baltimore, and from the Junction and Breakwater Railroad Companies, the sum of..... 25,854 25

Making an aggregate from both these sources of.....$120,577 78

Which sum has been applied by the Treasurer to the payment of installments of interest on the bonded debt of the State, the payment of the interest of which has not been otherwise provided for, amounting to the sum of one million four hundred and sixty-two thousand dollars. From the same statement it appears that the Treasurer had, on the first day of December, 1870, in the hands of the collectors in the different counties of this State, duplicate assessments from July of the same year, amounting to the sum of forty-three thousand seven hundred and thirteen dollars and sixty-four cents, which he estimates to be about sufficient to pay the installment of interest on the same debt due on the first of the present month.

The Treasurer had not, at the time he submitted his statement, made a final settlement with the collectors of the different counties, and therefore could not give the precise cost of assessing and collecting the taxes, but expresses the opinion that it will not exceed the sum of four thousand nine hundred dollars. The report of the Treasurer further shows that he had received, since his settlement with the Committee of the Legislature in January, 1870, to the first of December of the same year, from sources the income from which is appropriated by law to the payment of the current expenses of the State, revenue to the amount of twenty-four thousand four hundred and forty-three dollars and ninety-six cents, of which sum he had paid at the same date for the support of the Executive, Judicial and Legislative Departments of the State government, including the salaries of the State Treasurer and Auditor of Accounts, the sum of seventeen thousand eight hundred and sixteen dollars and three cents, and that he had of this fund to his credit in the Farmers' Bank, the sum of seven thousand five hundred dollars, which he estimated would be increased by the first of the present month to about the sum of twenty-five thousand five hundred dollars.

The Treasurer, according to the statement referred to, had received to August last, from sources the income from which is appropriated to the support of free schools, the sum of thirty-seven thousand two hundred and fifty-four dollars and ninety-four cents, and distributed the same among the school districts entitled to receive it.

It also appears from the statement of the Treasurer, that there was due the State, on the first day of July last, from the Junction and Breakwater Railroad Company, an installment of interest amounting to the sum of six thousand dollars, and that on the first day of the present month there was due a second installment of twelve thousand dollars, these sums being the interest for nine months on the loan of four hundred thousand dollars made by the State to that company.

It also becomes my duty to inform you that no part of the taxes due the State from the Maryland and Delaware Railroad Company have been paid since November 30, 1868.

I regret that I am unable to state the amount of taxes due the State from the Philadelphia, Wilmington and Baltimore Railroad Company, as the officials of that company have failed, since the first of November, 1868, to make the reports required of them by the law of 1864, and that they have also failed to make the reports required by the law of 1869.

I have now, as accurately as the data furnished me by the State Treasurer has enabled me to do, submitted for your consideration the condition of the finances of the State. I regret that I have not at my command the means of information which would enable me to be more precise, but hope I have approximated the true condition of the finances with sufficient precision to enable the legislature intelligently to consider the subject with reference to the future necessities of the treasury.

It will be perceived by careful examination, that the laws enacted at the session of 1869, to provide revenue for this State, if faithfully complied with by the railroad companies of this State, would secure sufficient revenue to pay the interest on our public debt and leave a handsome annual surplus to be applied to the redemption of the State bonds.

In this connection I submit that in my judgment some of the provisions of the act entitled "An Act providing revenue for this State," passed at Dover, April 8th, 1869, ought to be modified and amended and other provisions repealed. The modes of assessment and collection of the taxes are inconvenient and unnecessarily complicated, and ought to be so altered as to make them conform to the convenience and interests of the tax-payers. The imposition of special taxes on particular classes is wrong in principle, unjust in its operation, and offensive to those to whom it is applied. I therefore submit that all the provisions of our laws imposing such taxes on particular classes, including the tax on collateral inheritances, should be speedily repealed. Tax laws are always odious, and submitted to willingly only for the purposes of meeting the necessities of government, therefore no greater amount of taxes should be levied for State purposes than will be sufficient to pay the current expenses of the State government, the interest on the public debt, and secure the gradual but certain extinguishment of the bonds of the State at maturity.

Tax laws should be uniform in their application and bear upon every variety of productive property alike. The proper adjustment of such laws is always difficult, requiring frequent changes, and it would have been unprecedented if the law passed at the last session of the legislature had proved an exception. But while the imperfections of the law in some particulars are apparent, it must be conceded that the legislature succeeded beyond what ought to have been the reasonable expectation of experienced and reflecting men in the paramount object of equalizing taxation by exempting from the operation of the law property which had theretofore borne all the burden of taxation for county purposes, and levying the additional amount of taxes required of us for State purposes upon those classes of property which had not been previously taxed in this State. No law could have been prepared, under the same circumstances and with the same haste, that would have better answered the purposes for which it was intended without repealing all our revenue laws then existing and enacting an entirely new law, applicable to both State and County purposes. I had the honor, in my biennial message addressed to the legislature on the sixth day of January, 1869, to suggest that the measure of every man's tax should be the amount of his net wealth. Reflection and experience have strengthened the conviction I then entertained. I believe now that the repeal of all our existing revenue laws, for both State and County purposes, and the enactment of an entirely new law, retaining our system of poll tax, taxing annually every corporate franchise granted by the State on its real value, and every citizen of the State on the amount of his net wealth, making available every source of revenue from property in the State and continuing such a judicious and wholesome license system as will be calculated to protect the public morals and properly regulate business, would inure to the best interests of the people of the State and give more general satisfaction to taxpayers than any other revenue system that can be devised. No fair-minded citizen can be unwilling to bear his fair proportion of the public burdens according to the interests he has protected by the laws of the community in which he lives. Nor can any honest man desire that his fellow-citizen be made to pay the proportion of public taxes which rightfully pertain to himself. I commit this subject to the wisdom of the legislature, with full confidence that such consideration will be given it as will lead to a just solution of the perplexing questions involved.

SUITS AGAINST THE PHILADELPHIA, WILMINGTON AND BALTIMORE RAILROAD COMPANY.

Additional legislation will be required to give to the act of last session, taxing railroad and canal companies, the effect proposed by the law. That law taxes railroad and canal companies incorporated under the laws of this State, and doing business in the State, upon the shares of their capital stock and upon their net earnings, and also imposes upon such railroad companies a further tax upon their rolling stock.

The Philadelphia, Wilmington and Baltimore Railroad Company, claiming an exemption from liability to taxation by the State under provisions of its charter, denied the constitutionality of the law so far as it applied to that company, and one of its stockholders instituted proceedings in the Circuit Court of the United States for this District to restrain the collection by the State Treasurer of the taxes due from the company under the law. The case presented to the Court, involving the question of the company's liability to taxation as well as the constitutionality of the law on other grounds, was heard in October last, and has recently been decided. The decision affirms the right of the State to tax the company, and also the constitutionality of two of the modes of taxation provided in the law. From this decision of the Circuit Court an appeal, I understand, has been taken by the company to the Supreme Court of the United States, more, it is presumed, for the purpose of delay than with any expectation of reversing the judgment of the Circuit Court.

This decision, if sustained by the Supreme Court, disposes finally of the claim of exemption from taxation set up by the company, and while disallowing the tax on rolling stock, sustains the tax on net earnings and shares of capital stock, from which, with proper amendments of the law, our railroad companies can be compelled to bear their fair proportion of the public burdens. I recommend such amendments of the law as will render it efficient for that purpose.

Under a resolution of the last General Assembly, the State Treasurer brought suit against the said Philadelphia, Wilmington and Baltimore Railroad Company to recover the amount of taxes due the State under the law of August 11th, 1864. The case was fully argued at the last term of the Court of Errors and Appeals, but the opinion of the Court has not yet been delivered.

RAILROADS.

It is gratifying to be able to inform the Legislature that the railroads of this State are all in a condition of increasing prosperity and usefulness. The railway of the Philadelphia, Wilmington and Baltimore Railroad Company, while it traverses only a little over twenty-three miles of our territory, is the medium which connects the railroads of this State directly with the cities of Philadelphia and Baltimore, and with railroads going to every section of this great country. This company, being the lessee of the Delaware Railroad, which is the central artery or trunk of the system of railway communication threading the counties of this State and the Eastern Shore of Maryland, receives the emoluments of the travel and freights from every section of this Peninsula to and from the great cities and vast manufacturing regions of the North and East. This patronage, in addition to its very large business between the cities of Philadelphia and Baltimore, makes this one of the wealthiest and most prosperous companies of this country, rendering the franchise granted to the company by this State one of very great value.

The Delaware Railroad passes through nearly the entire length of this State, and is connected by its junction with the Eastern Shore Railroad, and by branch roads from different points on its route, with almost every section of the Eastern Shore of Maryland. The various connections of this railroad, linking it with every portion of this State and the Eastern Shore of Maryland, will make it, at no distant day, a work of great value in a commercial point of view, highly remunerative to its stockholders, and indispensable as a link in the great chain of railway communication of the country.

The Junction and Breakwater Railroad is now completed from its junction with the Delaware Railroad, at Harrington, to its terminus, on the ocean, at Lewes, from which point there is regular steamboat communication with the city of New York. I am informed that surveys and soundings have been made at or near the southern terminus of this road, by agents of the Federal government, with a view to the erection of an iron or stone pier, under the provisions of an act passed at the last session of Congress, appropriating two hundred and twenty-five thousand dollars for that purpose. This work, when completed, will greatly enhance the value of the Junction and Breakwater Railroad, and thereby afford increased security for the mortgage of four hundred thousand dollars held by the State on that road. I congratulate the Legislature on the consummation of this valuable improvement, so long and anxiously desired by the people of that portion of the State through which it passes.

OYSTER BEDS AND FISHERIES.

In many of the larger States of the Union, as well as in some of the governments of Europe, their fisheries, under the fostering care of wise legislation, have been made not only the source of remunerative revenue to the treasury, but of great commercial enterprise and wealth to their citizens. Our State possesses resources in her oyster beds and planting grounds and in her rivers and inland streams, which are inhabited by the most delicious and profitable varieties of migratory fish, surpassed by few of her sister States. It scarcely admits of doubt that the oyster culture, under State supervision and protection would, in the course of a very few years, engage the attention of men of enterprise and capital, and that the Delaware beds would greatly increase in productiveness and afford employment for many hundreds of our people in the business of dredging, planting, canning and transportation. Delaware oysters are now sought for in the markets of many of our large cities and towns, and there can be no doubt that the business would, under judicious legislation, within a comparatively short time, afford compensating revenue to the State. The laws of the State have not been adequate for the protection of our oyster beds, planting grounds and fisheries from depredation by non-residents. Other laws should be passed, or existing ones so amended as to secure the objects for which they were enacted. The fisheries along the courses of our inland streams have, in some sections of our State, been abandoned. Formerly our supplies of fish were caught from our own waters and preserved by our own people,—now almost our entire supply is imported from other States. Whatever may be the cause of the failure of our fisheries, it is a subject worthy the consideration of the Legislature. I therefore recommend the appointment of a practical but competent person, at a moderate salary, as commissioner, to inspect not only our bay fisheries but those along our inland streams, and make such suggestions and recommendations as in his judgment will be most conducive to the objects contemplated. I also suggest whether such legislation as will secure to the State all the revenue properly derivable from this source would not benefit such of our own citizens as may be engaged in the oyster trade. The adjoining States of Maryland and Virginia have heretofore enjoyed almost an entire monopoly of the oyster trade on this continent. In proportion to extent of territory Delaware has an interest in this business not inferior to either of them. Our proximity to large cities and means of transportation affords us advantages which should not be neglected. The production of our vast beds and the judicious letting of our planting grounds, extending along more than two-thirds of the eastern border of the State, might, under judicious legislation, be increased to ten-fold their present productiveness. The demand for oysters as an article of food has been steadily in advance of the supply. It is a duty we owe ourselves to make available the resources of wealth which a beneficent Providence has confided to us. It is as much the duty of the Legislature to protect our inhabitants in proximity to our rivers and inland streams, and the proprietors of the soil along our coasts, and all engaged in the business of fishing and culture of oysters, in all the rights which their location and business entitle them to, as it is to protect our fruit growers or the producers of any other of our staple products. Our oyster beds and planting fields, being the property of the State, should be made available as a source of revenue to the State. In my judgment the best interests of those engaged in the oyster trade would be promoted by such a policy, for the reason that unless the protection of this interest be advantageous to the State it will not be given. It cannot be expected that the State will assume the responsibility and incur the expense of protecting an interest not remunerative to the treasury? I earnestly commend this subject to your consideration, in the hope that it will lead to such investigation and result in such action as shall secure to our State and people substantial and lasting benefit.

DELAWARE COLLEGE.

The Legislature, on the seventh day of February, 1867, passed an act accepting the grant offered to the State by the United States, under the provisions of an act of Congress entitled "An act donating public lands to the several States and Territories which may provide colleges for the benefit of agriculture and mechanic arts." At the same session of the Legislature, an act was passed accepting a proposition of Delaware College "to convey to the State of Delaware a joint and equal interest in the grounds, buildings, libraries, apparatus and vested funds of said College proper, upon the condition that the State shall vest the income to be derived from the sale of the said lands in a board of trustees, not more than one-half of whom shall be the representatives of the State, and the remainder the representatives of the present board, for the purpose of establishing at Newark, in connection with said College, an institution which shall meet the requirements of the act of Congress, and extend to the people of this State the benefits of its provisions." Section 2 of the last mentioned act provides "that the State Treasurer, in conjunction with the Governor of the State and the President of the Board of Trustees of Delaware College, is hereby authorized and required to sell and assign, upon such terms and conditions as they may deem best for the interests of the State of Delaware, the whole or any part of the scrip or land warrants issued or to be issued to the State by virtue of said act of Congress." In compliance with the requirements of this act of the Legislature, the State Treasurer, in the month of April, 1869, contracted to sell to G. F. Lewis, of Cleveland, Ohio, all the college land scrip donated to this State by the act of Congress above referred to, being scrip for ninety thousand acres of land, for the sum of eighty thousand dollars. The purchaser, owing to an unexpected decline in the price of land scrip, was unable to comply with the conditions of his contract in reference to the time of payments, and on the fifth day of July, 1870, the terms of the contract in reference to the time of payment were changed and the time for the last payment extended to the fifth of July, 1871. The State Treasurer has received from the sale of this scrip the sum of sixty-four thousand nine hundred and eight dollars, leaving the balance, to be paid on the fifth day of July next, only fifteen thousand and ninety-two dollars.

I am informed by the Treasurer that he has purchased and paid for, out of the funds received from the sale of this scrip, forty bonds of this State of the denomination of one thousand dollars each, bearing interest at the rate of six per cent., for which he paid the sum of thirty-eight thousand two hundred and eight dollars and sixty-seven cents, leaving a balance in his hands of twenty-seven thousand six hundred and twenty-six dollars and thirty-three cents, which it is his purpose to invest in the bonds of this State during the present month, expecting to secure the bonds on more advantageous terms than he could have done previously. It was our effort to make the most advantageous sale for the College, and the most secure investment for the State which was possible under then existing circumstances; and if I am not misinformed, we obtained as high, if not the highest price that was paid for the scrip of any State in the Union, and the investment of the proceeds in our own bonds we considered the safest that could be made for the State.

For information in reference to the present condition of Delaware College, I refer you to a communication from its able and enterprising President, which I herewith transmit, and to which I invite your consideration. It will be perceived from examination of this communication of the President that the College has been opened under circumstances of as much encouragement as could have been expected, and being the only institution of the kind in the State, as a matter of State pride, as well as from the benefit it promises to exert upon the educational interests of the State, it becomes our people, and especially our public men, to aid it by all suitable and proper means. It is greatly desired upon the part of the Faculty of the College that the vacancies in the number of students which the members of the Legislature are entitled to appoint to receive instruction without charge for tuition, should be filled as early as possible. I therefore respectfully but earnestly urge upon you the importance of early attention to this matter. I herewith transmit a communication from the Professor of Chemistry, suggesting the establishment of a State Laboratory in connection with the College, for the purpose of analyzing our natural fertilizers, soils, &c., and also one from several of the Trustees in reference to the purchase of land for agricultural experiments and instruction, to both of which I respectfully invite attention.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

It is not without hesitation that I call your attention to the condition of our system of public school education. Changes in long established and well understood laws, especially when they are to be necessarily interpreted and executed by persons making no pretensions to legal learning, should not be made incautiously or without mature consideration.

The amount of public money appropriated to the support and maintenance of our public schools is an index to the interest felt by our people in their prosperity. I respectfully suggest that common school education is a subject which calls for your most careful and patient consideration. That there is need for changes in our present system cannot be doubted, but we should be careful that in attempting to cure existing defects we do not run into other and greater ones. The property holders of the State pay the taxes levied for the support and maintenance of free schools, and have a right to know that the funds thus raised are faithfully disbursed and honestly applied to the objects for which they are paid. I therefore suggest that some superintendence should be had by the State, through a legally authorized agent, over this whole subject. The supervisory power over our school system should not be entrusted to incompetent or negligent agents, and the duties of those entrusted with this power should be clearly defined by law, and their performance strictly enjoined. The advantages and success of public schools depend upon the qualification and character of their teachers. I therefore think that some means should be devised to secure the employment of none but competent and attentive teachers. I withhold, however, any specific recommendation, desiring simply to present for your consideration the magnitude of the interests involved in this subject, with a full conviction that, after an interchange and comparison of views, you will take such action as your better judgment indicates as proper.

ELECTIONS.

I respectfully invite your attention to the subject of elections, all laws for the government of which should be framed with the view to secure to every qualified voter the right to give expression to his sentiments through the ballot-box, and at the same time guard against the perpetration of frauds at the polls. This subject, in my judgment, should not be overlooked or lightly considered, for upon the preservation of the purity of elections depends the perpetuity of our form of free government. I suggest for your consideration whether our polling districts are not too large, and whether their division into smaller districts, so as to afford the opportunity to challenge and canvass the legality of every vote offered, where there is the slightest doubt of the qualifications of the person presenting it legally to exercise the right of voting. The unwarrantable interference of the Federal government with the freedom of elections in this State, by assuming to determine the qualification of electors in the several States, and making voters of our negro population, against the provisions of our State Constitution and laws, calls for legislative action such as I have suggested. Would it not be well to consider whether application for assessment, either to Assessors or to the Levy Court, should not uniformly be made in person by those claiming the right to be assessed, and not through a third party?

I have learned through the public prints, and also from the representation of reliable citizens, that there were, on the day of the last general election in this State, persons at or near the polls in Appoquinimink hundred, and several other voting places in this State, falsely claiming to act as marshals under authority from the Federal government, and assuming the right to interfere with the lawfully chosen election officers in the discharge of their duties. I recommend the passage of a law making such an offence a felony, punishable with the forfeiture of the right of suffrage, with such other penalties as the Legislature may deem expedient and proper, and the application of its provisions to all who may secure, solicit or encourage the perpetration of such offence.

STATE LINE.

On the first day of April, 1869, the General Assembly enacted a law entitled "An act to settle and determine the dividing line between this State and the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania." The first section of this act is as follows: "That his Excellency the Governor be, and he is hereby authorized to appoint two commissioners, to act in conjunction with like commissioners on the part of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, to settle, determine, and locate the line between this State and the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, by extending the southern line of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania until it intersects the circular line of this State, and such line shall, with the approval of the Congress of the United States, be forever deemed and held to be the true boundary of the said States." Being cognizant of the condition of the State finances, and knowing that the Treasurer was in doubt as to whether he would be able promptly to pay the interest on the State debt, while recognizing the fact that the enactment of the law might be interpreted as an expression of the legislative will, I was not without difficulty in determining what my official duty required. I soon became convinced, by consultation with persons familiar with the subject, that the cost of the surveys and other duties imposed by the act would be greatly in excess of the estimate of the Legislature, and not regarding the law as manditory upon the Governor in reference to the time at which the duties imposed upon him should be performed, I determined to remit the whole subject to the Legislature, expressing my entire readiness to perform any duty which they may impose upon the Executive in reference to this subject. If it shall still be the will of the Legislature that the commissioners be appointed, and the surveys made, and other duties required by the law be performed, I beg to suggest that the law be modified in two particulars: first, that the Legislature fix the compensation of the commissioners, and limit the amount beyond which the Governor shall not draw to meet the entire expenses of the commission, surveys, and other duties connected therewith, leaving the final settlement to the Legislature; secondly, I suggest that the approval of the line, after it shall have been surveyed and marked, shall not be left exclusively with the Governor, but that some member or members of the Judiciary shall be appointed to act with the Governor in determining the question of the approval of such line.

PENITENTIARY.

I recommended in two former biennial messages, for reasons therein stated, the establishment and maintenance of a penitentiary in this State. Much reflection, and an experience of six years in a position in which I have been required by constitutional provision "to take care that the laws be faithfully executed," have strengthened and confirmed the convictions heretofore entertained and expressed to the Legislature. In my opinion, the controlling motive in the enactment of criminal laws and the imposition of penalties as a punishment for crime, should be the protection of society. But the duty to protect society by the enactment of law for that purpose, imposes upon the law-making power another duty scarcely less imperative—to provide for the proper discipline, and afford the necessary means for the reformation of criminal convicts. While the law should be faithfully enforced, as a terror to evil-doers, it should be tempered with humanity, and mercifully directed to the reformation of its unfortunate victims, and their preparation for usefulness after its penalties shall have been exhausted. The separation of transgressors, and especially youthful ones, from wicked and depraved associates, is calculated to awaken their better sensibilities, and lead to reflection and self-examination, which have not unfrequently resulted in permanent reformation and the transformation of the indolent and vicious into useful and exemplary citizens.

No better discipline can be provided for the inmates of prisons than the requiring them to perform manual labor in some useful and profitable vocation during a reasonable number of hours of each day. Such exercise gives vigor to the body and food to the mind, and at the same time compels convicts to contribute, by daily toil, to their own support. I earnestly commend this subject to your consideration. If, after a comparison of views, you should be of opinion that the present condition of the State is not such as to justify an outlay sufficient for the consummation of such an enterprise, I respectfully recommend that a commission be appointed to examine the whole subject and report their conclusions at the next meeting of the Legislature. I further suggest the propriety of ascertaining, through some authorized agency, whether an arrangement can be effected with any penitentiary in one of the neighboring States, to receive, employ and take care of the convicts of this State, during such terms of imprisonment as may be imposed upon them by the courts.

REVISED STATUTES.

I feel it my duty again to present for your consideration the importance of a revision of the statute laws of this State. Such a work, collecting together all State laws of a general nature, and the various acts relating to the same subject, in a consolidated and properly arranged form, would be of great public convenience and utility. The Revised Code of this State has been so altered and amended since its adoption as greatly to impair its usefulness. But if the Legislature should be of opinion that the importance of a new revision is not sufficient to justify the expenditure necessary to its accomplishment, I suggest that the publication of the Revised Code, as amended, would add greatly to the convenience of our courts, and public officers generally, but especially Justices of the Peace residing at a distance from the seats of justice, making it inconvenient to obtain the aid of legal advice.

PUBLIC BUILDINGS.

I cannot fail again to call the attention of the Legislature to the condition of the public buildings of the State. They require early attention, and should, at least, be put in a condition necessary to preserve them from unnecessary decay. I suggest whether the appointment of a superintendent of these buildings, with the authority to keep them in a proper state of preservation, would not be economy in the State.

STATE LIBRARY.

The State Library should receive prompt attention. The room appropriated for the purposes of the Library is entirely too small to enable the Librarian to keep the books in a proper state of preservation and convenience for reference. Hundreds of volumes of valuable books are packed in boxes or placed in the garret of the State House for want of space in the Library room to receive them. I respectfully suggest that the consideration of this subject should not be deferred. The large number of valuable books now on hand, with those we are constantly receiving through the courtesy of our sister States, ought not to be ruined or defaced for the want of means to preserve them.

REPRIEVES AND PARDONS.

In obedience to the requirements of the Constitution of this State, I herewith transmit a list of pardons, reprieves and remissions granted since the session of the Legislature in 1869, together with my reasons therefor. It may not be amiss in this connection to remark that the exercise of the pardoning power causes more anxious solicitude and perplexity than any duty devolved upon the Executive. The sympathies of society, claims of humanity, and appeals of relatives and friends, are often presented in such a way as to awaken the keenest and most touching sensibilities of our natures, and without the exercise of the greatest caution, there is great danger of being led into error by allowing sympathy for the unfortunate to induce too much interference with the judgment of the Courts. This error I have tried to avoid, but at the same time have not been regardless of the appeals of justice or claims of humanity.

IMMIGRATION.

The subject of immigration has, since the termination of the late war, engaged the attention of the people of every section of this country, and especially of the north-western States, to an extent before unknown. The interest felt in this subject led to a convention of delegates at Indianapolis, in the State of Indiana, on the twenty-third day of November last, from twenty-two States and two Territories. At the request of this convention I have the honor herewith to transmit for your consideration the report of its committee on resolutions.

IMPROPER LEGISLATION.

Before closing this message, I believe it to be my duty to call attention to a class of legislation recently introduced in this State, which, in my judgment, is wrong in principle and unjust to our sister States. I allude to the granting of charters of incorporation for the transacting of business beyond the limits of this State, the majority of the corporators being non-residents of this and citizens of other States. The Legislature of each State is the proper authority to determine what corporations shall exist and transact business under corporate authority within its limits, and it will seldom happen that acts of incorporation will be refused by the Legislature of a State where the objects proposed are in consonance with the wishes or interest of the people thereof. While experience has shown that acts of incorporation are often necessary to facilitate the transaction of business, grave doubts exist as to the wisdom of multiplying them beyond the actual necessities of the business community. Corporate privileges tend to the aggregation of capital and the encouragement of combinations for the promotion of particular interests, which have led in other States to the exercise of dangerous influences upon legislation.

FEDERAL AFFAIRS.

The people of this State are deeply interested in the management of Federal affairs, and have the right to insist upon a wise and just administration of the Federal government under and within the limitations of the Constitution, and to demand that neither intimidation or coercion be resorted to to defeat or nullify the wish of the people of any State or any number of States having the right to speak in reference to any question where the interests of the whole are concerned.

In disregard of constitutional obligations, Congress and the Federal Executive have sought, by revolutionary means, to centralize and consolidate all political power in their own hands by attempting to control elections in the States. Without the power by direct act to amend the Constitution or alter its provisions, and unable to secure the voluntary consent of the number of States requisite for that purpose, they have forced some of the Southern States to consent to proposed amendments of the Constitution as condition to representation in Congress, and have thereby nullified the legally expressed will of other States whose consent could not be secured and whose proper and legal relations with the Federal government had never been interrupted. Such action is a fraud upon the non-consenting States and upon the people of the whole country. It is a subject of congratulation, however, that the people in the late elections rebuked these acts of usurpation and tyranny, and we may well indulge the hope that the spirit of true patriotism will assert its superiority over party subserviency and remove from power the representatives of a political organization which has failed, during a period of five years of profound peace, to bring the country back to the healthy condition in which it found it at the time of its advent to power in 1860.

SUFFRAGE.

The question of suffrage has received so much attention for the last few years, and was so fully discussed in the late political canvass in this State, that I deem it unnecessary to do more than allude to the subject. Until recently no political party in the country has ventured to claim for the Federal government any authority to determine the qualification of electors in the States, or to interfere with the just rights of the people of every State to determine all matters connected with their own local elections. The "Fifteenth Amendment," adopted by fraud and coercion, and in opposition to the will of the white people of the country, has been condemned by the popular voice in almost every State of the Union, and in none more signally than our own. Its effects upon both races must prove injurious, and it is to be hoped that its condemnation by the people of the country will, at no distant day, lead to its repeal as a part of the Federal Constitution.

Having submitted these views, upon such subjects as seem to require your consideration, I cannot, in conclusion of this last official communication which it will become my duty to make to the Representatives of the people, fail to express my profound obligation to the officers in the different departments of the State government for the aid they have constantly given me in the discharge of the responsible duties of the office from which I am soon to retire, and to the people of the State for their uniform kindness and encouragement in the performance of duties where conflicting interests rendered differences of opinion unavoidable.

GOVE SAULSBURY.

Dover, January 3, 1871.

A LIST of Reprieves and Pardons granted by the Governor of the State of Delaware since the Sixth day of January, A. D. 1869.

NAME.	CRIME.	In what Court convicted & sentenced.	SENTENCE.	Action Of Governor.	DATE.	Grounds of Reprieve, Pardon and Remission.
Collingwood Hallett.	An Assault.	General Sessions of the Peace and Jail Delivery, Oct. Term, A. D. 1869, Sussex Co.	To pay costs of prosecution, a fine of $200, and be imprisoned 3 years.	Remission of imprisonment.	1869. February 16	The Governor was induced to make this remission by the urgent solicitations of many respectable citizens of Sussex county, but principally because the payment of the fine and costs of prosecution was a punishment sufficient for the offence committed.
Charles Davis.	Highway Robbery.	General Sessions of the Peace and Jail Delivery, Nov. Term, A. D. 1866, New Castle Co.	Pay costs of prosecution, a fine of $500, stand in pillory 1 hour, be whipped with 40 lashes and imprisoned four years.	Remission of all the sentence that had not been executed.	1870. March 28.	The Governor granted the remission in this case because it had been represented to him that the said Davis was induced by others to commit this crime while in a state of intoxication. The Governor also believed that the prisoner had suffered a punishment sufficient by his long imprisonment and whipping inflicted.
Henry, McKennon.	Larceny.	General Sessions of the Peace and Jail Delivery, May Term, A. D. 1870, New Castle Co.	Pay restitution of money, costs, be whipped with 10 lashes, and imprisoned two months.	Pardon.	1870. May 25.	The Attorney-General made written application to the Governor to grant the pardon in this case, stating that the said Henry McKennon by some misunderstanding had pleaded guilty, and was unjustly sentenced by said Court in his (the Attorney-General's) absence.
Wm. Peckering.	Larceny.	General Sessions of the Peace and Jail Delivery, May Term, A. D. 1868, New Castle Co.	Pay restitution of money and costs, be whipped and imprisoned.	Remission of all the sentence that had not been executed.	1870. August 10.	The prisoner having suffered from the lash, his long term of imprisonment having expired, and his conduct in prison being exemplary, were the facts which, in connection with the earnest solicitations in his behalf by many good citizens, induced the Governor to grant the remission in this case.
Wm. Peckering.	Larceny.	General Sessions of the Peace and Jail Delivery, May Term, A. D. 1868, New Castle Co.	Pay restitution of money and costs, be whipped and imprisoned.	Remission of all the sentence that had not been executed.	1870. August 10	This is the prisoner to whom the Governor granted the remission here next above mentioned. The reasons assigned for Executive interference in that case are the controlling reasons for the issuing the pardon in this.

Under said sentence the said Jacob Leimberger received the twenty lashes and served out one month and twenty-one days of his imprisonment. The remainder of said term having been remitted by Governor Burton on the 23d day of January, A. D. 1860. Governor Salisbury believed that the law had been fully vindicated by the punishment already suffered, without carrying into execution, at this late day, the remainder of said sentence, and therefore granted a full pardon of the offence committed.

This remission was made upon the representation of the Jail Physician that the prisoner had lost an arm, and had received a gun-shot wound in the breast, which is still unhealed and open, and that by reason thereof he is very feeble in health and incapable of sustaining the infliction of the ten lashes imposed by the sentence and judgment of said Court. The Chief Justice, Associate Judges, Attorney-General and the twelve Jurors empanelled in the case also recommended the remission of that portion of the sentence which requires the said Reed to be whipped with ten lashes.

This remission was made upon the representation and petition of the most respectable and responsible citizens of New Castle county. — Their representation of a belief on the part of the prisoner that the person upon whom the assault was committed had been instrumental in inveigling from her home the daughter of the prisoner, and causing her to be conveyed away beyond the reach or knowledge of her parents. The expression of opinion of the petitioners that there was some reason to believe he was wrongfully convicted, which opinion was founded in part upon the avowal of a younger brother that he alone had committed the assault; and further, that if under the circumstances, the prisoner was guilty, the Governor considered the imposition of a fine of $1000, and imprisonment for five years adequate punishment.

Jacob Leimberger.	Larceny.	General Sessions of the Peace and Jail Delivery, Nov. Term, A. D. 1859, New Castle Co.	Pay restitution of money and costs, be whipped with 20 lashes and imprisoned 1 year, commencing Dec. 7, 1859, and ending Dec. 6, 1860.	Pardon.	1870. October 3.	Under said sentence the said Jacob Leimberger received the twenty lashes and served out one month and twenty-one days of his imprisonment. The remainder of said term having been remitted by Governor Burton on the 23d day of January, A. D. 1860. Governor Salisbury believed that the law had been fully vindicated by the punishment already suffered, without carrying into execution, at this late day, the remainder of said sentence, and therefore granted a full pardon of the offence committed.
Lucius T. F. Reed.	Larceny.	General Sessions of the Peace and Jail Delivery, Nov. Term, A. D. 1870, New Castle Co.	Pay restitution of money and costs, be whipped with 10 lashes, imprisoned 6 months.	Remission of whipping.	1870. December 6.	This remission was made upon the representation of the Jail Physician that the prisoner had lost an arm, and had received a gun-shot wound in the breast, which is still unhealed and open, and that by reason thereof he is very feeble in health and incapable of sustaining the infliction of the ten lashes imposed by the sentence and judgment of said Court. The Chief Justice, Associate Judges, Attorney-General and the twelve Jurors empanelled in the case also recommended the remission of that portion of the sentence which requires the said Reed to be whipped with ten lashes.
Hugh Sweeney.	Assault, with intent to kill.	General Sessions of the Peace and Jail Delivery, Nov. Term, A. D. 1870, New Castle Co.	Pay costs of prosecution and a fine of $1000, stand in pillory one hour and be imprisoned 5 years.	Remission of Pillory.	1870. December 8.	This remission was made upon the representation and petition of the most respectable and responsible citizens of New Castle county. — Their representation of a belief on the part of the prisoner that the person upon whom the assault was committed had been instrumental in inveigling from her home the daughter of the prisoner, and causing her to be conveyed away beyond the reach or knowledge of her parents. The expression of opinion of the petitioners that there was some reason to believe he was wrongfully convicted, which opinion was founded in part upon the avowal of a younger brother that he alone had committed the assault; and further, that if under the circumstances, the prisoner was guilty, the Governor considered the imposition of a fine of $1000, and imprisonment for five years adequate punishment.

I, James Ponder, do solemnly swear, on the Holy Evangelists of Almighty God, that I will perform the duties of the office of Governor of the State of Delaware with fidelity. So help me God.

The Governor then delivered his Inaugural Address to the General Assembly, as follows :

Gentlemen of the Senate and House of Representatives, and Fellow-citizens:

Having taken the oaths required by the Federal Constitution, and by the Constitution of this State, I propose, in compliance with established usage, to submit some observations indicative of the views I entertain in respect to public policy, federal and state. Before doing so, however, I must be permitted to express my grateful acknowledgments to the people of the State for the confidence reposed in me by my election to the highest executive office in their gift. My appreciation of the honor conferred will be best evidenced by a faithful discharge of the responsible duties of the position to which I have been called.

If an honest desire, coupled with an honest effort, faithfully to perform those duties shall enable me to do so, I here give public assurance that that desire is entertained and that effort shall be made. It is a source of gratification to me that I owe my election exclusively to the votes of the white citizens of the State. The honor of the position would, in my judgment, have been diminished, and its possession wholly undesired by me, had that possession depended upon the suffrages of any other class of the community.

While I recognize and yield to the existing state of facts in relation to the right of suffrage, and in my official capacity shall faithfully observe all laws, federal and state, while they shall remain unrepealed or shall not have been declared by judicial authority to be unconstitutional, and shall also impartially guard and protect, so far as I may possess the necessary constitutional or legal power to do so, all classes and persons in the free and undisturbed enjoyment of their rights, yet it is the conviction of my judgment that the extension of the right of suffrage to persons of African descent was unwise in policy, unsound in principle, and will be found to be in practice greatly detrimental to the public interest. It is needless to discuss the means by which this extension of suffrage was forced upon the people. Few honest men will deny that the policy itself existed but in one motive—perpetuation of power in the political organization which alone is responsible for it. Had the motive in which this policy had its origin been of an entirely different and even of the present character, the policy itself would nevertheless be wholly indefensible.

The measures adopted to secure its establishment were the most fatal assaults which have been made upon our complex systems of government, federal and state, since their organization. They were the unwarranted enlargement of the powers of the former, and the practical destruction of the inherent and essential powers of the latter. The right to determine who shall make, expound and execute the laws of a state, is a right so vital, that not only does the freedom of its citizens depend upon their exercise of the right, but the very existence of the state itself depends upon its possession. No community, or association of persons, however numerous, can, with propriety, be called a state, if such community or association does not possess and may not exercise the power of self-government, and the possession of the legislative power is an essential element in self-government. This power is the supreme power in a state.

It prescribes the rule of civil conduct for the citizen. The citizens must either directly or mediately through representatives chosen by themselves, prescribe this rule. If prescribed by an alien or extraneous body, the people are not citizens but subjects. If there be a power greater than the people of a state which can rightfully determine their domestic institutions, or say who and what portion of such people shall enjoy or exercise the right to vote, and consequently the right to participate in the enactment of the laws, it logically follows that such greater power may declare that no portion of the people of a state shall possess or exercise any right or power in the government of the state. It is folly to call such a people free. It is a misnomer to call this government self-government in its administration or republican in character or form. It is compulsory and despotic, and deserves execration, and is unfit for eulogy or respect. The state governments established by our fathers were free, independent governments, the governments of free, independent communities. They had their origin in the vindication of the absolute right of the people of each community to govern themselves. Our fathers declared that the colonies were free and independent states, and as such, had full power to do "all acts and things which independent states may of right do." The formation of our federal system of government was never designed for the destruction of the state governments, or even for any substantial abridgement of the right to self-government.

I do not think the proprieties of the occasion forbid a more extended reference to the nature, character and powers of our federal and state systems of government. Events have recently transpired, and are now transpiring, which fully justify such a reference.

Had the true character of these governments been generally known those events would not have occurred, and we should not now be called upon to confront the political hydra of consolidation.

Under our peculiar polity every state government stands in a twofold relation to the general welfare, and owes a public duty, not more to the people within its limits than to the associated republics without. The importance of this latter relation has, from the events referred to, acquired such an overshadowing, and even portentous significance, that I should feel my duty was less than half performed were I not further to pursue the inquiry into our federal and interstate relations.

When the thirteen separate colonies became independent and coequal states, they still felt the necessity of continuing the union through which they had achieved their recent success. Experience soon taught them that this union, to be sufficient, must be more intimate than it had originally been. They felt the need of a common government, which, for certain objects, should exert, through its own instrumentalities, a direct control, not only over the several states, but also over the people thereof individually.

In establishing this government, however, they were exceedingly careful not to extinguish, or even essentially to impair the authority of the several state sovereignties. Jealous of the rights, they determined, at all hazards, to preserve the liberty they had just achieved. In analogy to the recognized maxim that a well ordered state government calls for no surrender of individual manhood, they adopted a federal system which contemplated no abrogation of the substantial independence of the several states, but only such a modification thereof as would suffice to secure the end desired. They surrendered to the federal government entire control over our international affairs, and also, as a general rule, over all other subjects of rightful legislation, which, in their judgment, could be more advantageously regulated in that manner than in any other. These subjects, however, were comparatively few, and were distinctly enumerated. The regulation of suffrage, the police power of the States, the social relations, and all that most intimately concerns our individual well-being, remained as before, under the undisturbed control of the several State authorities. State control over all subjects was, however, far from being without limitation. Effectual restraints, therefore, were prescribed by organic laws, and much more so by the spirit of our civilization, and by the genius of our institutions. The great majority of all human transactions remained exempt from the special supervision of the legislator, and men were left free to seek their own happiness and advantage in their own way, subject only to the general regulations which might prevent a violation of the precepts of morality and justice.

Sovereignty, under our system, is threefold, that of the federal government, that of the state government, and that of the individual, or of the people.

The first is limited in its range, but within that limit is the most clearly defined and most absolute in character. The second is more extended in compass, but in certain enumerated particulars is subordinate to the first. The third, which is residuary in respect to subject matter, is far the most extended in scope and comprehensive in design. Each is supreme when acting within the name of its legitimate authority, and each is impotent elsewhere, except through usurpation.

In one sense the law is their common superior, for they must all act in obedience to its behests. But the power that can make and unmake the laws themselves must be ultimately supreme.

Under our system, therefore, the people are the paramount sovereign, though subordinate in certain particulars to each of its co-ordinates, and capable of exerting its ultimate control only in accordance with established forms and well recognized principles. The power that can eventually create or destroy is superior to the power that can be thus created or destroyed.

In full accordance with these principles was the Federal Constitution framed and established. The several particulars in which, until changed, the government thereby created was to be supreme, were enumerated or prescribed, and then, to leave no ground for misapprehension, it was declared in unmistakable and emphatic terms, that the powers not delegated to the United States by the Constitution, nor prohibited by it to the States, were reserved to the States respectively or to the people. Each of these powers, therefore, remained sovereign within their respective jurisdictions, limited only in the manner thus prescribed.

Such, then, so carefully adjusted and so nicely balanced, is the marvelous machinery of the federal system under which we were born, and through which we as a people had prospered beyond all former precedent. The wit of man had never before contrived its equal, and indeed may we not regard the combination of surrounding circumstances which contributed so much to its perfection as the special ordering of Providence, and the sacred principles therein embodied as the inspiration of the Divinity.

But, to operate with harmony and success, each of these limited sovereignties must be confined within its proper orbit. Each must exercise all its appropriate functions, but none other. If the people successfully encroach upon or set at defiance the constituted authority of the state, or of the federal government, the result will be anarchy. If the State legislatures usurp control over those rights and privileges of the people, which can safely remain unabridged, it is tyranny; if over those of the federal government the result will be disunion, war, or revolution. And if the federal government lays its unhallowed grasp upon undelegated powers, it will produce to that extent centralization and imperial rule, which is incipient despotism. Against the anarchy of popular insubordination on the one hand, and the consolidation of absolute power on the other, the state governments can interpose the only effectual barrier. With such a system operating in full vigor, a federal government that would fully discharge all its legitimate functions, without endangering the life, liberty, or means of happiness of one human being within its wide domain, might be extended over the civilized world. Mutilated in this respect, with the state governments destroyed or emasculated, and all power radiating from one centre, our present limits are far too extensive to be the bounds of a single government, unless the spirit of its people is paralyzed by fear or the government sustained by force. Examples are not wanting, of very recent date, to show the violation of this principle of the separation or division of powers by those entrusted for the time being with the administration of the federal government. The enforced adoption of proposed constitutional amendments by states, the attempted equalization of races, civilly, politically and socially, and the control of the elective franchise within the states by unconstitutional enactments, and the exercise of military power and the assumed authority to reconstruct states, all tend not only to the subversion of popular liberty, but to the destruction of our systems of government, both federal and state. It should be a subject of pride to the people of this State, that at every step, and on all occasions, they have firmly but legally opposed every measure of federal legislation which tended to the centralization of power or consolidation of government. In so doing they have shown their appreciation of the true principles of government so dear to their fathers, and which, if practically observed by all, would render our union of co-equal states perpetual. The true theory from which those principles are derived I believe to be, that while every government should be vested with power fully adequate to all its legitimate and needful purposes, the subjects upon which that power is to operate should be as few in number and these as limited in extent as is consistent with the purpose of its organization. If this be true, the proper study of the political philosopher and the patriot statesman is to dispense, as far as practicable, with all unnecessary interference on the part of the ruling authority with the freedom of action of all those over whom it exercises dominion.

That the world is governed too much is an accredited maxim, and should be made a vital principle of action.

The federal government should be vested with no power which can be properly exercised by the states—the states with none that can safely remain with the people, leaving with the latter the largest liberty that is compatible with public order. This would be emphatically a free government such as we claim to possess. It follows that the federal government should be limited strictly to its delegated authority. This can be enlarged in the legitimate way when found insufficient.

A latitudinarian construction of its powers removes all barriers and would soon render Congress as omnipotent as the Parliament of Great Britain. This, however agreeable to governmental favorites, is in antagonism with the vital spirit of our system, and would soon work a virtual revolution.

The occurrences of the past few years prove that this danger is not imaginary.

Let us all remember that absolute despotism is the logical result of tame submission to the beginnings of usurpation.

The Constitution of the State provides that the Governor shall appoint all officers whose offices are established by law, and whose appointments are not therein otherwise provided for. A proper discharge of this duty by the Executive, in view of his obligations to the people, and a desire to gratify the wishes of deserving applicants for office, and their respective friends, will doubtless render the proper discharge of this duty, by me, both delicate and embarrassing.

I can make no other pledge in this respect than that I will endeavor to be governed solely by the considerations of capacity, honesty and merit. In determining these, the public judgment will be consulted and in all proper cases obeyed.

The Constitution also provides that the Governor shall have power to remit fines and forfeitures and grant reprieves and pardons, except in cases of impeachment. This is a power, in my judgment, not to be arbitrarily exercised, but to be exercised under the sanction and restrictions of a sound and impartial discretion in view of all the circumstances attending each particular case. It is a power which will not be exercised by me for light or trivial causes.

The wilful and deliberate violators of the law have no claim to executive interposition in their behalf. This provision of the Constitution was not intended for their benefit, and I deem it my duty publicly to declare that I will not be made the instrument for the perversion of this provision of the Constitution.

In view of the fact that my predecessor has, at so recent a day, given to the General Assembly "information of affairs concerning the State, and recommended to their consideration such measures" as he judged "expedient," it is perhaps unnecessary that I should so soon perform the same office.

I will, however, suggest to the General Assembly that provision be made by law, if such provision does not already exist, for the prompt payment of the interest on the public debt as the same shall become due. Promptitude in the discharge of obligations is as much a public as an individual duty. In this regard the State of Delaware has never been remiss. Let her proud reputation in the past be her reputation forever.

On motion of Mr. Newton,

Adopted.

The Speaker then addressed the House in the following words :

GENTLEMEN OF THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES : I return to you my grateful thanks for the complimentary resolution you have just adopted. The flattering terms in which it is couched excite in me emotions of the most pleasant and at the same time most affecting character.

I am greatly pleased that my official conduct has met your approbation ; and, affected by the thought that we are about to part, most probably never to see each other again, it is painful to me to realize that the friendship which we have all formed for each other may not be enjoyed hereafter through mutual association.

I say to you, gentlemen, in all candor, that I have, as Speaker of this honorable body, tried so to discharge my official duties as to meet your approbation and satisfy my own conscience. There is no doubt I have committed errors, but as I know they were of judgment alone, I feel sure that, whilst your discerning minds detected them, your charitable hearts forgave them.

I have aimed to know no man or purpose at the expense of rectitude. In achieving whatever success I have met with in the performance of my duty our able and efficient Clerk has rendered me great and valued service. Our session has been to me, on many occasions, a very pleasant one.

Our discussions and decisions have been free from any unfriendliness towards each other, and, as I believe, from any suspicion of unfairness or selfishness. I think we have all aimed to do our duty to the people who sent us here, to our State of which we are citizens, and to ourselves as men; and no person of opposite politics to our own can truthfully complain, that his rights have been disregarded knowingly by us, or that he has not had the same measure of justice awarded to him and his case as has been meted out to his political adversaries.

If I may be permitted, as a member of this body, to say so much, my opinion is, that for fairness and equitable dealing in all respects this General Assembly stands conspicuous.

And now, gentlemen, as we are about to part, I hope you will remember me and my acts as your presiding officer, as I shall all of you and your acts as members of this House, with kindly affection and respect. I assure you that I shall ever cherish, as a most important and agreeable era in my life, the recollection of the session now about to close. Receive, gentlemen, my most cordial wishes for your safe return to your respective homes.

I now, in pursuance of a joint resolution adopted by both houses of the General Assembly, adjourn this House sine die.

ATTEST :

JOHN B. PENINGTON,
Clerk of the House of Representatives.
